

UMUC FPA Student Chapter News

Community is everything! We would love to have your students and university involved with FPA and the best way for you to start is by creating an FPA Student Community. FPA Student Communities help support students as they transition into CFP® professionals and are key to engaging with students early in their career.

While students participating do not need to be members of FPA to take part in a student community, we certainly would encourage student membership to take advantage of the many resources to students and extensive member benefits. FPA membership for students is $39 yearly.

Starting an FPA student community has never been easier - simply complete the FPA Student Community form and we'll connect you with your local FPA Chapter and provide additional resources to help you get started.

Already have an FPA Student Community? Share your successes and best practices with us - we'd love to feature you in our newsletter.

Best wishes to you as you start the new school year!

FPA Professor Resource of the Month

Listen to Hannah Moore as she talks about her struggles early on in her career, how she discovered the difference between financial advice and financial planning, and how she found her tribe within the financial planning profession.

Students will Learn:

- What makes an exceptional planner
- How to “show up” in the financial planning profession
- How to find your people in this profession

For Your Students

FPA NexGen connects students to more than 2,500 like-minded young professionals who are ready to share their experiences and further the future of the financial planning profession.

FPA represents young planner interests both nationally and locally and its members are doing great things – join the fun!
